Why did the College Board redesign the ACCUPLACER placement assessments?

As part of College Board's plans to improve its placement test services, align test contents with college and career readiness standards and, reflect the changing landscape of higher education with math sequences aligned to clear pathways, the classic Accuplacer tests are replaced with the NEW Next-Generation Accuplacer tests.

The Next-Generation ACCUPLACER placement tests more effectively help institutions place students in classes that match their skill level, and include texts and tasks encountered in first-year college courses.

What is Next-Generation Accuplacer assessment?

The Next-Generation Accuplacer assessment is a series of computer-based tests which assess your skill level in the following areas:

- Reading
- Writing
- Math

The test, although untimed, usually takes about 2 hours to complete.

This is a computer adaptive test. The test questions are multiple choice and chosen for you on the basis of your answers to previous questions. Hand held calculators are not allowed in the Math part of the test. Test takers can access an on screen calculator for certain math questions. Tests begin with sample questions designed to illustrate the types of test questions the examinee will see during the test.

With redesigned reading, writing and math contents, the Next-Gen Accuplacer tests have new score reporting scale of 200-300.
